

Publisher Writes Of Memorial Day Address Given By Editor At Observance In Mokena

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

HUMAN FRAILTY.—Plane crashes at take-off in New York, emphasizing the fallibility and frailty of man. A competent pilot, experienced, for some unknown reason chose a short-run for a four-motored plane take-off. It is doubtful if he can explain why. Wherever we travel, on land, or sea or in the air, our lives are committed to the safety of one person. If that one person fails, curtains.

RENT CONTROL.—Looks like Congress will extend rent control until next February. That is sensible. There are too many hogish persons in the world—in every community. A 10 percent rise in rent is sufficient for all purposes. The better-type landlords know this. There are some who would squeeze blood out of the poorest tenants. Until there is adequate housing, rent controls should stay.

HELICOPTERS.—From Nicaragua jungles a helicopter rescues men who jumped from a burning army B-17 plane. Without the helicopter some of the rescued men would have died. The jungles are thick there, impenetrable. Fortunate that much of science's handiwork can be turned to the alleviation of suffering. So much of it must of necessity go into preparations for destruction of our world.

LET'S DRIVE TRUCKS.—Milk trucks, that is, Chicago story says the average pay of drivers delivering milk to stores is $143 a week, or more than $7,000 a year. Some get as much as $13,000 a year for delivering milk to stores. Not bad for them. Bad for so many other people. But there is more coming: if new demands are granted it is said that maximum pay for delivering milk to stores will be $30,000 a year. Crazy things happen.

FUN.—Recently a waitress appeared in court to answer a charge that she threw a pie into her boss' face. She had an "impelling urge," she said, and, "tapped him on the shoulder with one hand and as he turned around I slapped the delicious mess in his face." Strange. Yet many of us feel, sometimes, like doing the same thing. The boss failed to prosecute. She went free. There's another girl working in Miss Guance's place.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE.—It's coming in some form, of course. The more modified, the better. The present measure in Congress is vicious. It would set up the least efficient and learned men in the medical profession as political bosses over everybody else. Fine medical doctors would refuse to become pawns of politics. Those willing to enter into the scheme would be of political minds, organization politics minds. That would be bad for the present, worse for the future. If you have any influence, use it to help beat any socialized medicine bill.

NEEDY PEOPLE.—Millions cannot pay for high-priced operations, for extensive examinations and treatments. They can pay something. The medical profession needs to do some heavy planning in their own interest and in the interest of the people. They are in better position to offer satisfactory measures than others outside the profession. Too fast, however, will be too bad.

FRANKFORT PLANT EXPANDS PROGRAM; PAY ROLL TO REACH HIGH PEAK

Moldit, Inc., of Frankfort is undergoing expansion.

Although the corporation has been established and in operation only one year, its production has substantially increased and it is giving employment to a substantial number of Frankfort people.

The president of the corporation W. F. Bradley, announced only last week the promotion of a Frankfort man, Roy Koerner, to night superintendent of the plant.

In the past year, the corporation, operating in three shifts for a full 24-hour, paid out in wages more than $40,000.

This year it is estimated that the community will benefit from a payroll of upward to $60,000.

"We prefer Frankfort people as employees," Mr. Bradley told the editor, "because in that way we make a definite contribution to the welfare of the community, including the merchants and other business and professional people."

Present employees total only 40, it was stated, but with the expanded plant this number will grow. The new Memorial day in Mokena was largely attended. This was the first year that this program has been held under the sponsorship of the William Martin Post, No. 725, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and they will from this time on do so each year.

The Post's commander, George Phelps, was chairman. Mokena public school pupils, under the guidance of their teachers, sang "God Bless America," with Mrs. Howard Strassenburg accompanying on the piano. Because of a misunderstanding of train schedules, this being a holiday, Mrs. J. P. Du Plessis of Chicago could not arrive in time to sing as scheduled, which was regretted very much.

Glen Peterson, adjutant of William Martin Post, read the roll call, and boy scout Donald Hayden led in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Oliver Gedeist, editor-manager of The Semmler Papers, was the speaker of the morning. Many adults mentioned appreciating the part in his address in which he spoke to the school children, saying that he hoped when they took their place in the adult life of the nation they would do a better job at it than their forebears; that they would be able to do better in preventing wars.

Editor Gedeist mentioned that the American people as a whole are too lazy to think, that it is easier to get a crowd at $5 a person in a dance hall, than to get a crowd at an occasion where intelligence is called upon to exert itself; that the American people as a whole are indifferent to the ordinary democracy.

In dealing with the thought of war, the speaker mentioned that war started in the minds of the people, that war is not confined to air, sea, or land, but that it begins in the homes of America, for as long as children grow with debased ideas of other nations, with hatred, prejudices, including race, religion, etc., we breed war and are guilty of every death caused by war. He said that praying never has nor ever will stop war. To stop war, requires knowledge, patience, and education for peace. The best way to honor the memory of the war dead, is to love, not hate; to understand our responsibility in this respect and not to distort our viewpoint; because there are a few honorable men in the Congress of the United States who are working unselfishly to weld the world into a peaceful unit without regard to party lines.

It is necessary to inculcate in a child the understanding of responsibility until all quit fighting, but until then, we must have arms—a navy, army and air force to protect us from other nations who have strong large forces as mentioned, bringing to our attention that the birds and animals attack and destroy those weaker, such being nature. When we are prepared, we can over come those coming to attack us. He advocated that we should be armed for years to come or else we will have to form arms. That the best way to honor our war dead, is to dedicate ourselves to better understanding of people and not to hate.

In well-chosen, and fitting words the speaker paid loving homage to our war dead, and the heart aches thus caused to the living, urging intelligence in dealing with this condition which is apparently the only way to overcome it, by doing away as mentioned above, with hatred and breeding of wars.

By the hearty applause given the editor at the close of his address, it was apparent that all agreed with him. Nobody wants war, any way the common people of every nation do not.

After adjournment, the line of march was formed and proceeded to the St. John cemetery, stopping enroute for a few minutes of silent tribute at the addition will add approximately 50 percent to the plant's productive capacity.

Before undertaking plant expansion, the corporation requested an interview with a committee from the Frankfort Lions club, to determine if the corporation had impressed the community with its desirability.

At the meeting last week the Lions declared approval of the company and its contribution to the community.

Moldit, Inc., manufactures molded rubber items largely for the automotive industry, although it is expanding into other commercial fields.

Other officials are H. A. Varney, vice-president; E. W. Gable, secretary-treasurer; John L. Rogers is plant superintendent.

Many employees are part time workers only, the company's policy being set so housewives may devote available hours to the plant without dislocation in their home responsibilities.

Only one complaint was made by Mr. Bradley in the interview: inability to get adequate trained office personnel locally, he said.

IN MEMORY OF

William E. Semmler

Founder and Publisher of The Semmler Papers, who died on June 8, 1946, family and staff pay this tribute:

A Loved One

Time brings not death, it brings but changes;

I know he rides, but rides afar,
Today some other planet ranges
And camps tonight upon a star.

For there were those who rode before him,
As there are these he left behind;
Although from us time's changes bore him,
The kinship of the comrade mind.

Time brings us change and leaves us fretting;
We weep when ev'ry loved one goes—
Perhaps too much, perhaps forgetting
That over yonder there are those
To whom he comes, and whom he knows.

I would not hold our loss too lightly;
God knows, and he, how deep the pain;
But, friends, I see, still shining brightly,
The brightest link in all our chain,
That links us with a new domain.

For this I swear, because believing;
Time breaks no circle such as this;
However hurt, however grieving,
However much a friend we miss,
Between the worlds is no abyss.

For friendship binds the worlds together—
World over there, world over here,
From earth to heaven is the tether
That brings the earth and heaven near,
And makes them both a bit more dear.

Not weaker now our chain, but stronger;
In all our loss and all our ill
We now shall look a little longer
At ev'ry star above the hill,
And think of him, and have him still.

W. whatever vales we yet may wander,
What sorrow come, what tempest blow,
We have a loved one, a friend out yonder,
To greet us when we have to go—
Out yonder some one that we know.

To all eternity he binds us;
He links the planet and the star;
He rides ahead, the trail he finds us,
And where he is and where we are
Will never seem again so far.

Band Uniforms Made Ready For Use

Band uniforms presented to Mokena P.T.A. by village Band Parents have sent for dry cleaning and pressing in preparation for use by a new band in Mokena, it was announced last week.

The uniforms were processed against moth infestations, it was stated, and sealed in moth-proof bags.

When another band will be formed is not definitely known, but it is thought probable that developments will bring an organization in the fall. Twenty-nine uniforms and an extra pair of trousers are ready for use, it was stated.

Revolutionary war veteran's grave in the Pioneer Memorial cemetery. At the Veteran's plot in St. John's cemetery, the veterans, with Commander Phelps in charge, conducted brief services, placing wreaths and flowers at the foot of the monument in that section, in honor of those who have given their lives for our country.

After almost every day of rain this month, there was no rain during these services, for which all were most grateful.

Frankfort's Memorial day celebration broke recent records for attendance.

Ceremonies began at 1:30 Friday afternoon at the school grounds, where the line of march formed to proceed to the cemetery. Led by a band composed of former Frankfort band members, assisted by visiting musicians, the procession moved past village hall and to the outskirts of the village, where trucks picked up marchers.

In the procession were uniformed former servicemen, legionnaires, a group of boys from Glenwood training school, and school children carrying flowers.

At the cemetery a program opened with a prayer by the Rev. Lloyd Coleman, followed by roll call by Mayor George C. Sangmeister, "Cover Them Over With Flowers," a song by the children, decoration of graves, music by the band, followed by return to the school grounds, where the program continued with an entertaining program, climaxed by an address, by the Rev. Erich Bizer, who paid tribute to the sacrifices made by fighting men in behalf of their country.

Mr. Bizer called attention to the fact that the public often fails to utilize the sacrifices made to develop the character and positive actions which should emanate from the spirit of the sacrifice involved.

The speaker called upon the group and all America to remember the responsibility we have for our individual lives as a component of national life. Nothing that a people who have glorified in liberty and freedom resented all form of dictatorship, he urged that we should seek with diligence to make democracy work, that we should honor the dead and respect and care for the crippled, and remember the needs of today.

Mr. Bizer emphasized the need for strong convictions based upon right and honor, in religion and in politics, declaring that "indifference is the sin of our time," urging more vital concern for the things that are worth while, including law and order, which he stressed as an immediate concern to all good citizens.

"American prosperity depends upon world prosperity," Mr. Bizer declared, urging a joining of the world in common effort instead of "zones of influence"—a sure road to war.

"The future challenges us to have more courage," Mr. Bizer declared in closing his address, commented upon by many of his audience as an eloquent plea for remembering the dead and planning for minimizing future dead in a war which might take many millions of life in a single day through atomic destruction.

A dance in the Frankfort school gym, sponsored by the Bobzin-Swinford post American Legion, concluded the day's observance. The dance was largely successful, with several hundred present.

Homer and DuPage townships are to be incorporated into the present Lockport township high school district, voters in all three decided at this week's special election by an overwhelming vote as only seven ballots were cast opposing the expansion.

In all three areas, 146 ballots were cast. Of these, 135 favored the enlargement of the Lockport district. All 26 of the votes cast at the Lockport high school favored the measure.

In Homer township, 78 votes were cast, with 68 approving the issue, six opposing it, and four ballots were spoiled. Of the 42 voters who went to the polls in DuPage township, 41 favored the expansion and one voter opposed the measure.

Insurance Men's Party
Officers of Green Garden Fire Insurance Company and their families met last Sunday in town hall, Green Garden, for a potluck dinner and party. Forty persons were in attendance.

MISS HELEN STEGE IS MARRIED TO WILLIAM ABBE AT TINLEY PARK

Miss Helen Stege, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stege of Tinley Park, was married to William Abbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Abbe of Mokena, in a ceremony in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Sedan Prairie, 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 1. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. Treskow.

Preceding the bride to the altar, which was adorned with bouquets of white gladioli and palms, were Miss Bernice Stege, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Bernice Rauch, and Helen Marquardt. Their gowns were of the same styling, but in pink and blue.

The gowns were of taffeta with tight bodices and full skirts. The bodice had short puffed sleeves, and the marquisette yoke was emphasized with ruching. Each wore a blusher veil in matching color, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of roses and carnations. The little flower girl, Margie Kimmel, wore a gown fashioned the same as the bridesmaids, and in blue. Her bouquet was a very tiny nosegay.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a

N. L. Church Has Set Youth Group

The Senior Young Peoples' society of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church was organized April 15 with nine in attendance. Since there are a number of young people who have graduated from high school or have reached that age, and also a number of young people married within the congregation, the need was felt for such a senior group. At the second meeting held May 13 the officers of this society were elected. William Schoop was elected president, Margaret Rydberg vice-president, Ruth Ann Barnes secretary, and Kenneth Klausung treasurer.

The general purpose of the organization is to foster interest in the church and the principles of the church, including training every member for a life of Christian service.

Regular meetings were scheduled for the second Tuesday of each month.

William F. Koerners In 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Koerner of Frankfort celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 1, surrounded by their attendants of 40 years ago.

The bridal party consisted of eight attendants: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koerner of Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jures of Peotone, Mrs. Fred Hilbert of Michigan, Mrs. George Foertch of Chicago, Walter Konow of Lockport, and Henry Koerner of Frankfort.

Other guests were Rev. and Mrs. Erich Bizer, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Konow, Mrs. Henry Koerner, Mr. George Foertch, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Konow, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Welchbrodt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koerner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Koerner, Dorothy and Marion Schoop, Kenneth Waldvogel, Marian Gray, and Mrs. Bertha Neiland.

A 4 o'clock dinner was served. The decorations were ruby and white. Albert Krusemark Jr. took moving pictures of the bridal party in the afternoon. Refreshments were served in the evening. Gifts of money and cards were presented the honored couple.

Frankfort Scavenger Service Discussed

Scavenger service for Frankfort is hoped for at an early date, Mayor George C. Sangmeister reported this week.

At the Monday night meeting of the village board a proposal was made by Mr. Streepy, Joliet's scavenger contractor, to handle Frankfort's garbage and rubbish problem on a basis of 25 cents weekly, $1 monthly.

It was agreed that Mr. Streepy would make a canvass of the homes and business places in Frankfort to determine how many would enlist the service.

Mayor Sangmeister expressed the hope that Frankfort citizens would respond to the solicitation in large numbers, since the problem of garbage disposal has been serious for some time.

The new service will collect garbage, cans, small rubbish, and ashes, but will not include limbs and bushes and other large things. All refuse must be placed in containers that can be easily handled, the mayor stated. The service, if at least 75 contracts are made, probably will operate each Saturday.

The 25-cent rate does not apply to business houses, it was stated; this service will be computed on the needs of the individual business place.

FRANKFORT-MOKENA 4-H UNITS TO MEET JUNE 17

A combined meeting of the Frankfort and Mokena units of 4-H clubs is scheduled to be held in Mokena Tuesday, June 17. An interesting program has been announced, and it is expected that a large number will be present.

Time: 7:30. Place: Mokena school

TINLEY HOMECOMING PROGRAM GIVEN SUPPORT BY 14 ORGANIZATIONS

For some reason, the strange name of "Tos Ko" having quite a reputation for getting around the country and making people glad he was there.

Tinley organizations reported as having booths for the three-day homecoming, when the grand prize will be two free round-trips with expense money to Mexico City, are as follows:

Royal Neighbors, Civic Club, Firemen's association, American Legion, Legion Auxiliary, V.P.W., V.F.W. Auxiliary, Tinley Park Social club, Boy Scouts, St. George's Men's club, 4-H club, Women's Benefit association, St. George's Ladies society, Tinley Park Recreation commission.

Both mothers wore blue ensembles and their corsages were pink carnations.

One hundred and fifty attended the bridal dinner and reception in the bride's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbe left for a one-week trip and upon returning will make their home with the bride's parents, the William Steges.

Graduates Advised To Check On Selves

Twenty-one New Lenox grade school pupils received diplomas at the graduation exercises held in the school gymnasium Thursday evening, May 29.

The graduates were as follows:

The graduation address was given by Louis Bottino, superintendent of schools of Will county. Mr. Bottino urged the graduates to "look under the hood" as one would under the hood of a car to check up on themselves. He pointed out that just as a good car must have certain attributes, so must a good life. He particularly stressed the importance of doing something in life which will make the world a better place in which to live.

The complete program follows:

Selections, New Lenox band, W. H. Reed, director; processional, "Pomp and Circumstance," New Lenox band; "Star Spangled Banner," band; invocation, the Rev. John Cleveland, pastor Grace Episcopal church; welcome, Ann Archibald, valedictorian; "One Fleeting Hour" and "Stardust," Girls' chorus, Mrs. Lois Lahey, director, Mrs. Edith Warning, accompanying; address Louis Bottino, county superintendent of schools; presentation of class, John Oster; presentation of gift from class to Mr. Oster, Geneva Jeanne Oster, class president; presentation of diplomas, Darwin Cooper, president of the board of education; recessional, "Pomp and Circumstance," Rita Waldvogel.

As the graduates marched onto the stage in the processional they passed under flower arches, which were held in position by Mitzel Weber, Arlene Droney, Caroline Cole, Robert Waldvogel, Donald Storm, and Mark Batson, all seventh-grade pupils. The arches were covered with bridal wreath and apple blossoms. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with streamers of pink and white, the class colors, and bouquets of white lilacs, apple blossom, honeysuckle, and tulips. Mrs. Ivan Archibald, eighth grade room mother, was in charge of decorations.

The graduates wore white carnations, their class flower, presented to them by the school board. Mrs. Stanley Ekedahl, hospitality chairman of the Parent-Teachers association prepared corsages of white lilac, tulip, lily of the valley, and white narcissus and boutonnières of white narcissus which she presented to the mothers and fathers of the graduates.

After graduation pictures were taken, a reception and dance followed. Music was furnished by Len Warning's orchestra.

white satin dress with princess lines with tiny ruffles of lace extending from the shoulder to the hem and slightly shirred at the shoulders. The sleeves were leg-o-mutton and came to a point over the hand. The veil was very long and held in place with a coronet of seed pearls. Her bouquet was white roses and carnations with a shower of white sweet peas.

She also wore a rhinestone choker with earrings to match, a gift of the groom.

The Rev. A. W. Gode of Mokena was the organist, and the congregation sang "All Depends on Our Possessing," which was the hymn sung at the marriage of her parents.

Edward Abbe was the best man and the ushers were Norman Kampe and Walter Rauch Jr. The little ring bearer was Marvin Stege.

THE MASTER CARVER . . . The elements, at work since the beginning of time, have carved this gigantic trough in the Grand Canyon of Colorado river. One of nature's most spectacular sights, the canyon is 297 miles in length, a mile deep and at some places 18 miles wide.

NATURE'S MASTERPIECES

Erosion Carves Stupendous Spectacles in Three Canyons

WNU Features.

From the beginning of time, wind and water have combined to carve the earth's surface in a small section of northern Arizona and southern Utah into three of the most stupendous spectacles in the world, the Grand Canyon of Colorado river, Zion canyon of Virgin river and the great horseshoe-shaped amphitheater known as Bryce canyon.

Each area in this scenic triumvirate is now a national park and as such belongs to the people of the United States. These parks may be counted among the incomparable jewels in the national treasure—to be enjoyed by us today and to be held in trust for the benefit of generations of Americans yet to come. Grand Canyon National park in northern Arizona is the largest of the three parks, containing 645,000 acres.

National Parks Fifth In a Series

Zion National park in Utah is second in size with 94,000 acres and Bryce Canyon National park, also in Utah, is the smallest with 36,000 acres. In 1946 more than 825,000 people visited these parks.

Grand canyon is 297 miles in length, a mile deep and in some places 18 miles wide. Mighty mountains, rising thousands of feet from the depths of the gorge, are dwarfed by the enormous proportions of this titanic trough. From the rim of the canyon the visitor may look down on the summits of these mountains. Wave on wave they reach to the horizon, garnet, purple, topaz, like a stormy sea on fire. And a thousand feet down real storm clouds may lash these mountains, lightning may sparkle and thunder may reverberate from wall to wall, while above the sun shines in a cloudless sky.

BYRCE CANYON presents a sharp contrast to Grand canyon. Here the visitor enters a fairyland of pink, white, red and lemon yellow, a land of minarets and towers, a land of castles and cathedral domes, a dreamland of goblins and grotesque shapes. There are 30 miles of pink cliffs carved and sculptured.

The main amphitheater, three miles long and about two miles wide, is crammed with fantastic figures and kaleidoscopic color. Trails lead to such places as Sunrise Point, Fairy Castle, Queens Garden, Peek-a-boo Canyon, and Silent City.

AGAIN IN SHARP contrast, Zion canyon is like a vast cathedral. The dome of heaven seems to rest on its sheer stone walls. Considered by many people the most satisfying of all national parks, Zion, by the splendor of its scene, invariably commands silence from all who enter. Approaching by Mount Carmel highway, the first view is from the wall of the canyon through windows in the highway tunnel. From the south the visitor enters along the course of Virgin river passing between the huge rock masses called the East and the West Temples.

Once inside these gates, the traveler stands in a level valley enclosed by almost perpendicular walls which rise more than half a mile above him. Side canyons cut these walls into tremendous blocks, which rise from a blood red base, changing to reddish brown and, two thirds up, to gleaming white, tinted with buffs, grays and reds.

As the visitor proceeds along this monumental valley he passes the Sentinel, the Mountain of the Sun, the Court of the Patriarchs, the Great White Throne, Angels Land-

Old Fort of 'Lost Colonists' Unearthed

WASHINGTON. — Recent archeological excavations at the traditional site of the fort of Sir Walter Raleigh's "lost colonists" within Fort Raleigh national historic site on Roanoke island off the North Carolina coast have revealed positive evidence of an old earthen fortification which may be the one constructed by Raleigh's colonists, according to Newton B. Drury, director of National Park service.

Three exploratory trenches have been excavated at the fort site. Visible in each trench was the profile of the ditch or moat of the fort, approximately 10 feet broad and 5½ feet deep. The depth and character of the fill indicate that the fort is indubitably of great age, in contrast to the remains of Civil war forts of earthen construction discovered elsewhere on Roanoke island.

VALUE OF DOLLAR SLOWLY CLIMBING TO NORMAL

Each of us would like to receive each pay day the number of dollars the boss passes out to us today, and have each dollar buy what it would, say in 1910.

At that time, and down to 1933, for each dollar we turned in the government would give us, if we wanted it, 100 cents worth of gold at that 1910 price of gold. Our United States currency, down to 1933, was backed by gold. Then, like most other nations, we quit the gold standard; devalued our currency by one third by raising the price of gold, and our dollar had no standard of value. A dollar was worth only what a dollar would buy.

During the peacetime years between 1933 and 1941, the government was spending each year for unproductive work, billions of dollars more than it was taking in, and increasing the number of dollars in circulation to the extent of billions.

With no standard of value, and an increase in the number of dollars in circulation, there was a decrease in what each dollar would buy. For each dollar we could not get as much value in clothes, food, fuel or other necessities and luxuries because there were too many dollars and no standard of value. Had we have maintained a gold standard we would not have had the surplus dollars, for we would not have had the gold needed to back them.

LIMITED INFLATION

As long as the amount of commodities produced kept pace with the demand of the ever increasing number of dollars in our pockets, competition helped to keep prices down and the purchasing power of the dollar up. But we had inflation in a limited way. By 1941 our dollar was worth in commodities about 50 cents.

Then came the war. Our factories turned from producing things our dollars could buy to making of the implements of war, the only purpose, or value, of which was destruction. Competition changed from that of sellers to that of buyers. It was a race between rising wages and rising prices. There were not enough peacetime commodities to meet the demand of our all too many dollars with no fixed value. Under such conditions the government's effort to fix prices resulted in creation of the black market.

These things, despite the excessive taxation on the part of federal and local governments, meant additional inflation, and that we still have. Our present day dollars, with no fixed value, today will buy less than one third of what our 1910 dollars bought.

Today we have such a large number of destandardized dollars in circulation, 10 times or more as many for each of us as in 1910, that the dollar has a long hard road to travel before it gets back to that 100 cents value it had before the government devalued and destandardized it. That, together with war conditions, reduced its purchasing power to the approximately 30 cent value of today.

The tide has turned, and we are climbing back very slowly. If we could stop the issuing of additional dollars we would gain in value more rapidly. A balanced budget will help in that it will stop the issuing of more government bonds to be sold to the banks, and government bonds are largely the foundation on which bank note dollars are issued.

It will be a happy day when our dollars again can be backed by gold, when they have a fixed value, but that day is seemingly a long way in the future.

DISTRIBUTION of money without production of commodities the money can buy is a cause of inflation. General Motors pays wages to something like 300,000 employees, but produces a product to take up those wages, and more. The government pays wages to more than 2,000,000 civilian employees and produces nothing.

DON JUAN, seemingly, does not appreciate Franco's intentions of passing to the Spanish pretender the crown of Spain.

You help yourself when you spend your money in the home town.

In this age of speed we are in a hurry to get somewhere, but we are not sure as to the reason for the urge.

FOR A NUMBER of years the American government was prolific in producing plans that accomplished nothing other than increased national indebtedness. We planned and built towns in which no one lived; we planned farm management which produced no crops; we planned employment that resulted in no production. Over those years we planned as England is planning now. The result there will be as bad or worse as in this country. Government's job is to govern, not to produce or plan production.

IF THERE are any upsets, any reversals of form, in baseball this season, the same will come from the pitching side.

For example, if anything happens to the Boston Red Sox, the trouble won't come from their infield or outfield. It will come from a pitching staff that is still uncertain.

Last season Dave Ferriss, Tex Hughson and Mickey Harris won many well-pitched games. But they also won a flock of games that only savage hitting and run-making saved, games in which they were hammered into pulps.

Tex Hughson, before the war, was rated as one of baseball's best. Last season, Tex needed the help of Red Sox bats to save him, game after game—and so did Dave Ferriss. In the season's opener, the Red Sox gave Hughson a 6-0 lead, and yet he couldn't finish.

It is more than probable that Joe Cronin will need some extra help from some of his younger pitchers, if he is to win again, even if he has more good ballplayers on his team than any other rival by a two to one ratio.

Red Sox pitching hardly belongs in the same class with Cardinal or Tiger pitching. These are the two strong staffs in baseball, well beyond any other collection of right and left arms.

Newhouse is the best pitcher in baseball today. Bob Feller is sure to have a good year. But he isn't sure to have a great year, as great a pitcher as he has been in the past.

The Tigers have at least four high-grade pitchers who also have strong supporting aides. So have the Cardinals.

Durable Hurlers

When Red Munger opened his new season, with a well-pitched game, you could almost hear Eddie Dyer's sigh of relief drift in from the Midwest. For Munger, over 6 feet, weighing 200 pounds, is the type that can work in 35 or 40 games. He is also the type that might win 25. This means that such slender and somewhat fragile workmen as Pollet, Brechren and Dickson can get all the rest they need.

It is quite possible that, with the addition of Allie Reynolds and the showing of young Johnson, the Yankees' pitching staff will be the strongest section of the squad. If they are to get anywhere it will have to come through with better than average pitching.

As far back as 1906, the White Sox, known as the Hitless Wonders, proved what good pitching could do. Their team batting average was .228. Yet, Ed Walsh, Nick Altrock and Doc White carried the team to a pennant, and then to a world series victory over the powerful Cubs. The White Sox, starting from last or near last place, won 19 straight in their flag drive. Pitching did it.

In 1914, Rudolph, Tyler and James pitched the Braves from last place to the pennant, and then a four-game sweep in the big series.

In each case you'll notice that three pitchers did most of the work. Few pitchers today get half enough work. A good pitcher should be worked every fourth day, to keep his condition and build up his control.

Credit for Connie Mack's star teams of some 40 years ago was always given to his brilliant infield. I'd give even greater credit to Bender, Plank and Coombs, three of baseball's best. His infield wasn't great enough to protect an only average pitching staff.

Worked 45 Games

All you need, to discover what the power of good pitching means, is to look through past world series records, and see what happened to Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner and many other stars up through Ted Williams and Stan Musial. Giant pitchers held even the mighty Babe to a mark of .118 in one world series.

Most of the great pitchers of baseball, those with the stronger arms, could work through 45 or 50 games a year. This list includes Cy Young, Matty, Johnson, Alexander, Walsh, Chesbro, Feller, Newhouse and Dizzy Dean.

The tendency today is to lift a pitcher the moment he begins to wobble a trifle. This is often a necessary move. But it doesn't help the pitcher's confidence nor bring him the work he needs.

In past seasons, looking well back, good pitchers were allowed to stick. This accounts for the fact that many of them were able to win from 30 to 40 games a season. Matty, Alexander and Johnson turned this trick at least twice.

Feller insists that the heavy pressure he put on his arm last year from January to December had no harmful effect. Everyone hopes Bob is right. But there is also such a thing as overwork.

WHY BE A SLAVE TO HARSH LAXATIVES?

Healthful Fresh Fruit Drink Has Restored Millions to Normal Regularity!

Here's a way to overcome constipation without harsh laxatives. Drink juice of 1 Sunkist Lemon in a glass of water first thing on arising.

Most people find this all they need—stimulates normal bowel action day after day!

Lemon and water is good for you. Lemons are among the richest sources of vitamin C, which combats fatigue, helps resist colds and infections. They supply valuable amounts of vitamins B₁ and P. They pep up appetite. They alkalize, aid digestion. Lemon and water has a fresh tang too—clears the mouth, wakes you up, starts you going.

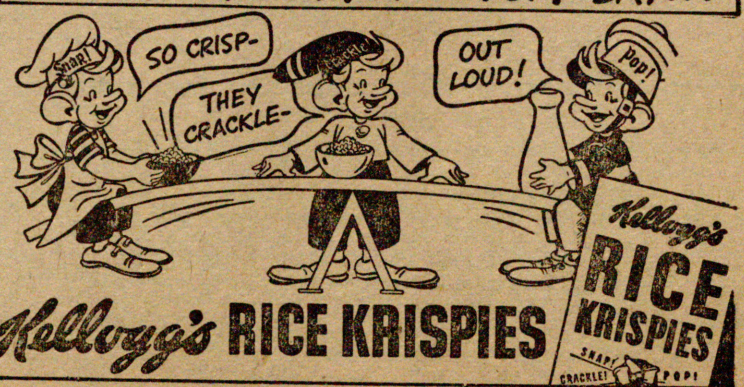

Try this grand wake-up drink 10 mornings. See if it doesn't help you! Use California Sunkist Lemons.

Handmade Rugs Are Lovely

Cool, Wing-Sleeved Nightdress

Pinwheel and Square Rugs
Whether you are a crocheter or a knitting fan, you can use your skill to make some lovely rugs for your home. At top, the round pinwheel rug is crocheted of just four balls of rug yarn. Below, the knitted rug is a yard square and so easy to do.

Butterfly Nightie
A DELIGHTFULLY cool nightie for summer nights. Pretty enough for a trousseau, too. Use a dainty flower sprigged fabric and trim with two-inch lace banding at the neck, self-material or embroidered ruffling for the "butterfly" sleeves. The applied bow-knot can be of lace or ribbon.

For complete crocheted instructions for the Pinwheel Rug (Pattern No. 5376) and for knitting instructions for the Square Rug (Pattern No. 5296) send 20 cents in coin for each pattern, your name, address and pattern number.

To obtain complete cutting instruction applique pattern, finishing instruction for the Butterfly Nightie (Pattern No. 5138) send 20 cents in coin, your name, address and pattern number.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Dogs I've Known... by CARL ROSE

In buying fish, select the ones with bright bulging eyes, if you want tasty ones.

Have several round pot holders on hand as well as square ones. These are very handy for removing pies and puddings from the oven as there are no corners to drop into the food and make the holder sticky.

Soak table linens to be laundered in clear cool water before placing them in hot suds. The cool water will help remove stains before hot water sets them.

Snoophound—Looks everywhere for a bite to eat—except in his feed pan. If only his mistress would fill it with Gro-Pup Ribbon! Crisp. Toasted. Made with 23 essential nutrients. Economical, too. One box supplies as much food by dry weight as five 1-lb. cans of dog food! Gro-Pup also comes in Meal and in Pel-Etts. For variety, feed all three.

It's all right to leave opened canned goods in the original tin cans in the refrigerator for a short period. But cover the can to prevent absorption of other flavors and odors.

Corned beef, tongue, and fish dishes are given an unusual zest with horseradish salad dressing. Combine one-half cup cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise with two tablespoons grated horseradish to achieve a new dressing.

Lunch-box vegetables (such as carrot strips and celery) stay fresh longer if they're sliced small enough to fit into a waxed paper cup. An ice cube in their midst will keep them ice-box fresh. This will make a hit with lunch-box diners.

ORLAND PARK

The three eighth grade graduates of district 134, received their diplomas at the annual exercises held in the Orland high school auditorium Wednesday evening May 28. The graduates were Judith Anderson, Richard Lorenz, and Marjorie Yunker.

William Yunker visited last Tuesday with the Ben Yunker and Arthur B. Beagley families in Blue Island.

Mrs. Fred Yunker and daughter Dorothy and Mrs. Arthur Beagley and daughter Joyce attended the "Breakfast in Hollywood" at Tinley Monday. Mrs. Beagley and Miss Yunker were on the program.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson Jr., and children visited in the James Thompson Sr., home over the week end.

A large number of relatives pleasantly surprised Mrs. Fred Yunker on her birthday last Saturday evening. Cards were played and refreshments were served.

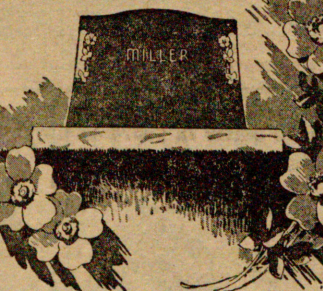

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beagley and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bennett motor-ed to Barrington, Ill., Memorial day and spent the day with the Winter family who live on the famous Salerno Cooke man's farm.

Mrs. I.D. Marti of Mokena and Mrs. Jack Horras of Chicago visited at the W.T. Beagley home Memorial day.

CARD OF THANKS

I extend my thanks to Bobzin-Swinford post No. 1098, American Legion, and to Renford-Meyer post No. 470, American Legion for the thoughtful kindness in sending so many lovely cards to me.

GEORGE BUSSI

Frankfort-Mokena unit of Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Emil Johnson Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. William Fair presided with roll call answered by "What I like most about being a Home Bureau member". A report on the success of the Antique and hobby show was given by Mrs. George Elsner. The members displayed many lovely antiques in the unit booth and showed quilts and hobbies in the auditorium. All contributed to the country store and fishing pond. Mesdames Eleanor Bormet, and June Lauffer played several piano selections at the afternoon session.

Mrs. Louis Holm, unit 4-H chairman announced a joint meeting of the Jolly Troupers 4-H club, and the unit at the Mokena school in June. The leaders of this 4-H club are Mesdames Lawrence Kohl, and Wilbert Lauffer. The major lesson "characteristics of emotional maturity" was presented in an illustrated talk by the adviser, Mrs. Lucile Castle. The minor lesson "first aid treatment of shock" was given by Mrs. Fred Piepenbrink.

A Cancer quiz was also held as a check up on the lesson, beginning with a motion picture show by a Red Cross nurse of the Will county Health department last fall. Resuscitation was conducted by Mrs. June Lauffer, and Mrs. Elvera Neiman had charge of the mystery box. The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of the program.

All homemakers in the Frankfort-Mokena area interested in Home Bureau are invited to attend a combined unit and 4-H club meeting June 17 at 7:30 p. m. at the Mokena school.

Guests in the Frank Schoen home Sunday May 25, were Mrs. Frances Linke and children of Mokena, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rura and family of Joliet, Mrs. Robert White and son of New Lenox and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jordan of Dyer, Ind.

Dale Warning spent the week end with his parents.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Howard Osmus were pleasantly surprised when a group of their former high school associates came to see them in their new home.

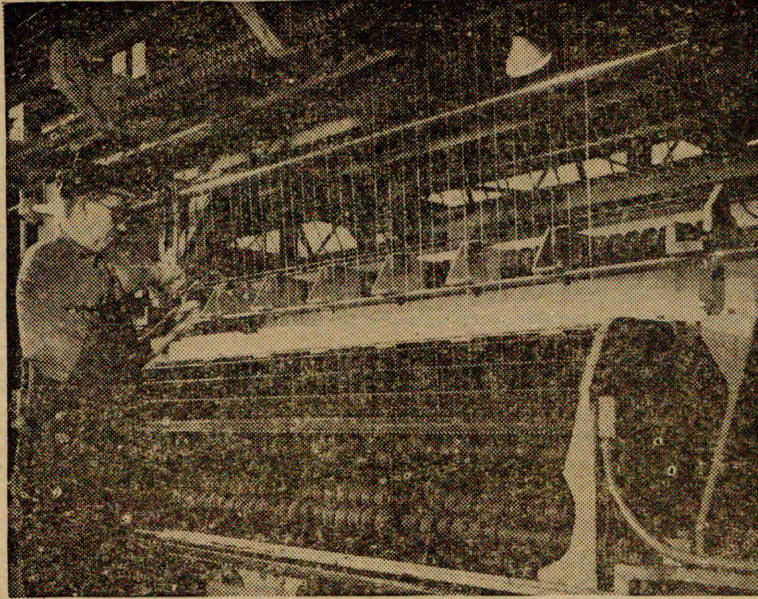

The W. S. C. S. of the Frankfort Methodist church will meet in the church parlors June 5. Devotionals will be given by Mrs. Irvin Schell-hase and the program is in charge of Adella Lorenzen. Hostesses are Mesdames Helen and Myrtle Bell.

Of the thousands of entries in the contest of Constellation, a national school paper, (all grades were eligible), there were but six winners in the state of Illinois, of which William James Carrier, a pupil of the Orland Junior high school was a winner. He won a beautiful aeroplane. The fifth grade class also won a prize in the Historical and geographical project, of which they are very proud. Mrs. Carrie Johns the teacher has had a very successful year, ending with a picnic last Thursday, which owing to the inclement weather had to be held in the school house. Nevertheless it was immensely enjoyed.

Mrs. Richard Oetter of Andres entertained members of her Sunday school class Sunday afternoon, complimenting Miss Dorothy Jarchow, one of the class, who will become a bride in the near future. Games were played and a hamburger fry enjoyed. The honored guest was presented a gift from the group.

William Batson and several of his co-workers of the Farrell corp., of Joliet enjoyed a three-day fishing trip to Wautoma, Wis., returning Saturday night.

Mr. Adam Oetter has been quite ill

Skilled workman checks poultry netting being woven from wire on automatic machines at Joliet Works, American Steel and Wire Company, where annually 96-million feet of poultry netting are produced. You can see these fascinating machines in operation on June 11, when the U. S. Steel subsidiary plant holds its public "Open House." Your tour through the plant begins at its Collins Street entrance and includes visits to all departments where operations will be running at top speed.

for the past several weeks at the home of his son Richard. He is some better.

Mr. Albert Jarchow of New Lenox announces the approaching marriage of his daughter Dorothy, to Mr. Arthur Benson of Mokena, which will take place June 21 in St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church. A shower was given in her honor Thursday evening in the Mokena hall. Other parties are planned by her friends and relatives.

Visitors in the F. J. Kohlhausen home Memorial day were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kodat and son Charles of Corona, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bettenhausen of Chicago Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Andres of Tinley Park.

Week end guests at the Edward Batson home were Betty Batson of Chicago, Barbara Bickley of Homewood, Marie Bartholme of Manhattan, and Charlotte Dralle of Andres.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Klepper returned Friday from a two week's vacation through the east, spending some time in Maryland at the home of Mrs. Klepper's parents, and stopping at Niagara Falls, and Detroit.

At the annual banquet meeting of the American Association of University women, Tuesday May 27, at Christ Episcopal church, Joliet a very fine program was presented at which Miss Faye Oetter of Frankfort was the guest coloratura soprano, with Miss Phyllis Hedstrom as accompanist. She sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" by Victor Herbert, "Romance" by Sig-mund Romberg, and the Bell Song.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Batson are now residing in the upstairs apartment at the former Fred Marthome and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Haakinson and daughter will move into the lower apartment this week. Both are bus drivers for the Gold Star line from Hammond to Joliet.

Mrs. Henry Kuch returned home Sunday, May 25, from Oshkosh, Wis. where she attended the silver wedding anniversary of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradley.

Mrs. Conrad Oetter is representing the Membership drive of Will county Music Association which begins June 2. Membership will be obtainable only

INSURANCE OF ALL KINDS

6648, 174th PLACE, Tinley Park, Ill. Tel. 346
WHY AUTO PREMIUMS ARE MORE

Here's why an increase in automobile insurance rates is necessary.

1. Bodily injury claim costs have risen as a result of a 30% increase in automobile accident deaths, rural accidents showing a 48% increase. Bodily injury claims are averaging 40% more than in 1941 because of loss of high wages and accelerated medical and hospitalization costs.

2. Property damages and collision claims are likewise mounting. Repair costs are up at least 35%, closely following the upward trend in general living costs. Wages of mechanics are high and repair parts are still scarce and costly.

3. Although 15 million of the 27 million cars on the road should be replaced with new autos, the 1946 output of new cars totals only about

2,200,000 with 5,000,000 expected in 1947. However, new cars are costing from 30 to 50% more than in 1941 so that many older cars will continue on the road, creating a serious hazard.

4. As evidence that old cars are not standing up, the American Automobile Association reports 17% more breakdowns.

5. The 18.7% increase in automobile thefts in 1945 was followed by a 15.5% additional increase in 1946.

6. With highways and streets in poor condition and with drivers operating older cars at faster speeds there is no immediate relief in sight, although insurance safety organizations are doing their utmost to check the rising accident trend.

Drive Carefully, Carry Insurance, Better be safe than sorry. Be careful where ever you see children and old people. Drive Slowly.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Go to Sleep

We were sitting around Bill Webster's parlor Friday evening and the talk turned to the best way of overcoming sleeplessness...like breathing real slow and deep, imagining that you weigh a ton, or simply throwing away the pillow.

The consensus favored counting sheep. But right away was the question: what kind of sheep? There were some votes for countin' Merinos, Shropshires, Oxfords and Dorsets. Ed Mapes said he had best luck counting crossbreeds.

Finally, Bert Childers spoke up with his formula: A light snack and a mellow glass of beer at bedtime. Sort of puts you in the mood for quiet thoughts and peace of mind. Lets you relax...and "ho hum," off to pleasant dreams!

From where I sit, there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer to smooth away the creases of the day, relax a body, and pave the way for a good night's sleep. Try it, and see if I'm not right.

YESSIR! THAT'S ONE OF THE REASONS I'M GRADE A

"Balanced feeding, clean cows and clean equipment are essential to the production of high quality milk, but there's more to it than that—to keep quality up, you've got to keep the bacteria count way down... just like the boss-man is doing here with his drop-in Electric Milk Cooler."

Keep talking, Mabel...what's the pay-off?

"Pay-off?—plenty! Extra money—top prices—for higher quality milk. Not one can of rejected milk. Better flavor and odor. Dollars saved in cooling costs. Sanitary, time-saving milk handling. Dependable, mechanical refrigeration that provides controlled, uniform temperatures from top to bottom of the milk cans."

We're convinced...what's the next step?

A trip to your local dealer, of course, to look over the Electric Milk Coolers. They're available... and there's one sized to your herd and fitted to your purse. The peak milk production season is just a step away, so plan now to pocket more profits by marketing more top quality milk. An Electric Milk Cooler will help you do it economically... efficiently!

The Woman's club will meet in the home of Mrs. Angelo Depra Wednesday afternoon, June 11, with Mrs. Fred Kopelman as assisting hostess. Annual election of officers will take place at this time.

Mrs. Carl Berganske, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Helen Berganske, and Mrs. Neva Winke entertained the Homer-Lockport unit of the Home Bureau in the former's home last Wednesday afternoon. The health lesson was given by Mrs. William Walker, "Causes and Control of Undulant fever" was presented by Mrs. Harvey Ingersol and Mrs. William Roberts, and Mrs. Robert Burch reviewed the lesson on herbs. The hostesses served a birthday cake with candles in celebration of the ending of the unit's first year. The group voted to give $25 to the 4-H camp on Rock creek; also $5 to the cancer fund. The next meeting will be in the Wilker home.

Visitors of the missionary society at its meeting in the church last week were Mrs. Charles Goss, Mrs. Walter Paddock and Miss Anna Krueger of Lockport, and Mrs. Edward Trainor and son of La Porte, Ind. A comforter was tied and carpet rags sewed. The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Wray White, with Miss Myra

Reed leading the devotionals.

The Hadley school will close its year with a picnic at Inwood Saturday June 7.

Homer's vote on the proposed new high school district last Saturday was largely in favor of the combination with Lockport.

Misses Jean Jungles, Rose Brankey, and Shirley Burch received their high school diplomas at the commencement exercises at Lockport township high school Thursday evening, June 5.

Mrs. B. F. Ingersol, who was badly hurt by a fall in her home five weeks ago, is now able to be about her home.

Adolph Haley and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gorham spent Wednesday evening with Mrs. C. F. Haley and Miss Agnes Haley in Marley.

Mrs. Edward Trainor and son of LaPorte, Ind., are spending several days with the former's aunt, Mrs. Guy Bump.

Mrs. Alice Storm of Joliet is a house guest in the home of Mrs. Ira Anderson.

Arthur Hewitt of Willow Springs, Mo., but formerly of Homer, is a patient in a hospital at Springfield, Mo. Guests in the home of Mrs. Emma West on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred West of Rockford, Mrs. Fred Blodgett, and Mr. and Mrs. John West and family.

Mrs. Wallace Morrison is ill in her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward French and daughter Miss Barbara and Mrs. Minnie French of Joliet, were Sunday visitors in the Frank Loucks home.

The Merry Maidens 4-H club will meet in the Isaac Goodman home Wednesday evening, June 11.

The Rev. Mr. Alderton of Chicago Theological seminary visited Homer church Sunday morning to arrange for the coming of a student-pastor this fall. There will be a short business meeting at the end of the morning service next Sunday to vote upon this matter.

The annual Children's day program will be presented at 9:30 a.m. next Sunday, June 8.

You Should Know Your Government

White House Marriages

HAS a President ever been married in the White House?

Yes, Grover Cleveland married his ward, Frances Folsom, in the White House on June 4, 1886.

Do you know which two Presidents died in the White House? Why the secretaries of agriculture, labor and commerce cannot succeed to the Presidency, while other cabinet members can?

Our Reader Service Booklet No. 202 answers hundreds of interesting questions about our government: history, tradition, facts and figures. Send 25 cents (coin) for "Know Your Government" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 West 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 202.

Short Reach

Two men were discussing a mutual acquaintance.

"Nice fellow," said one, "but have you noticed how he always lets his friends pick up the dinner bill?"

"Yes," replied the other. "He has a terrible impediment in his reach."

Al or Nickel

The telephone operator answered an agitated summons from a call box. "Ob, miss," came a tearful feminine voice, "can I have my nickel back, Al-bert won't talk to me!"

Cheering Thought

The pessimist was suffering from rheumatism.

"Every bone in my body aches," he complained.

"You ought to be glad you're not a herring," said the optimist.

An intelligent girl is one who knows how to refuse a kiss to her boy friend without being deprived of it.

Georgia Family Has 18 Additional Fingers, Toes

The family record for having polydactylism, the possession of an abnormal number of fingers and toes, is believed to be held by the Johnsons, a Negro family living today in Colquitt county, Georgia, says Collier's.

Inheriting the condition from her father, the mother transmitted it to seven of her ten children, and the eight together have 18 additional normal digits, ranging from one extra toe on a son to two extra toes and three extra fingers on a daughter.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

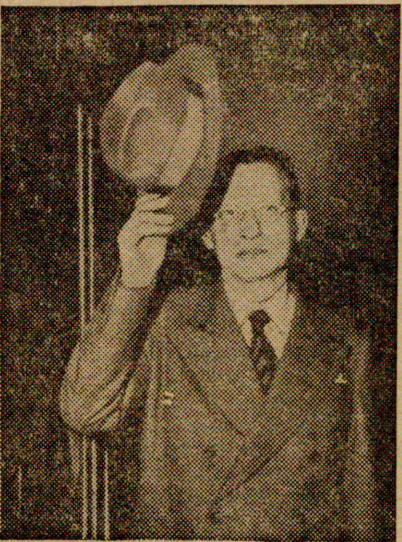

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

TWO VETERANS TALK . . . Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower (left), army chief of staff, chats with Sgt. Edward Beamon, armless golfer. They played in a two-day "famous persons" golf tournament at Washington, D. C.

ITALIAN PREMIER RESIGNS . . . Premier Alcide de Gasperi leaves the office of Italy's provisional president, Enrico de Nicola, after resigning his position. Strong factions want him back, however.

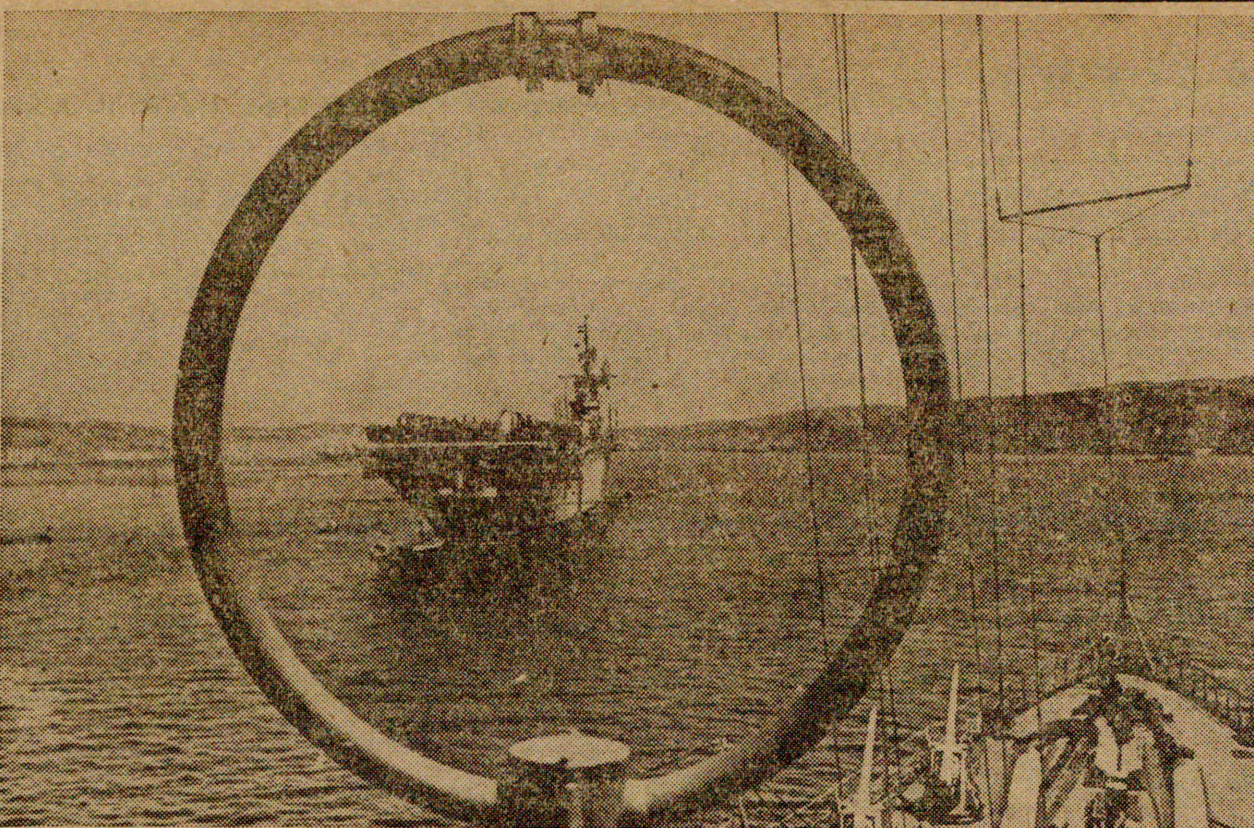

MONETARY FUND HEAD . . . Andrew N. Overby has been appointed by President Truman as the U. S. executive director of the international monetary fund. He is an authority on international financial and monetary affairs.

THREATENED WITH DEATH . . . Victor Kravchenko, former Russian embassy attache who renounced Communism, says he fears assassination by Communist agents who have threatened his life. He has requested a body-guard.

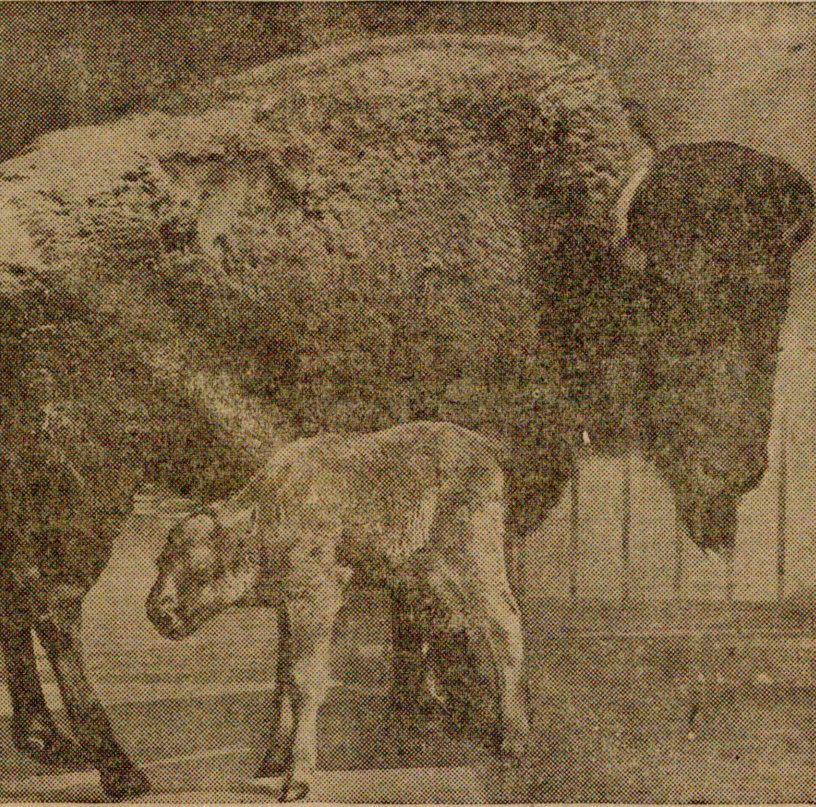

MISSION COMPLETED . . . David Ben Gurion of Palestine, Zionist leader, boards plane to return to his homeland after attending United Nations meeting held to iron out the controversial Palestine problem.

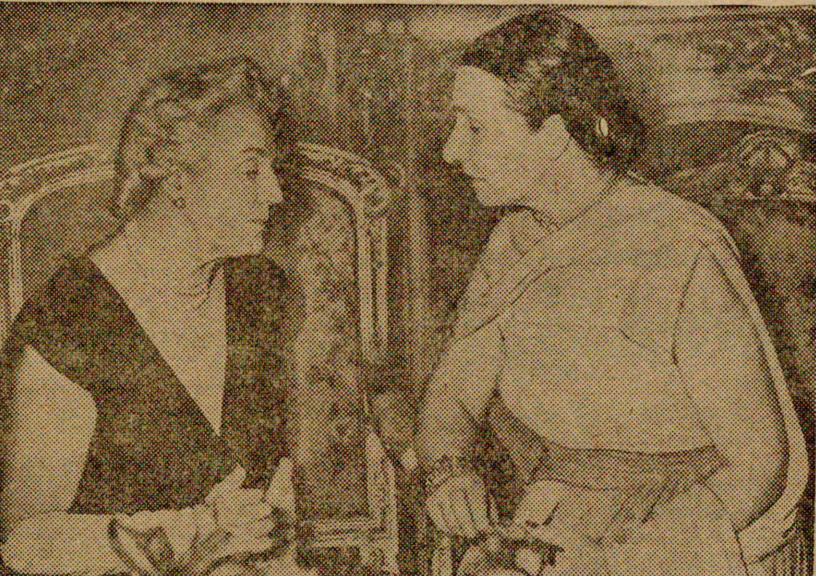

AMERICAN SEA-AIR POWER . . . United States aircraft carriers and other naval vessels have been making a good-will tour of the Mediterranean, touching at some of the world's troubled areas. Here, framed through the mast aerial of an accompanying ship, the aircraft carrier Leyte enters the harbor at the port of Istanbul, Turkey, for a friendly visit. The fact that ships of the United States navy chose this particular time to make the rounds of the Mediterranean and put in at a Turkish port is claimed by some to have a connection with President Truman's program for aiding Greece and Turkey. One opinion is that the navy is not out primarily for "good-will" but rather to put on a show of strength in the area.

EUROPE'S HUNGRY PEOPLE . . . Besieged by the specter of famine, the people of Europe are becoming more and more restless. Mass demonstrations, like this one which occurred in Vienna outside the chancellery, show dramatic proof that hunger is rampant all over Europe, with each country convinced that it is hungrier than its neighbor. The United States—the good provider—will increase food shipment rations to Germany, hardest hit of all the European nations.

FIFTY-POUND YOUNGSTER . . . A new addition to the world of buffaloes, this little tyke was hailed with considerable joy by Central Park zoo officials in New York. Its parents, a couple of buffaloes named Mary and Bill, were also pleased. Mama Mary, standing here beside her youngster, is reported to be doing well; and the baby, who tipped the beam at 50 pounds when he was born, is strong and healthy, caretakers say.

WRONG BABY . . . Mrs. Leonard Sosa, 28, claims the child she is holding here was substituted by a Bronx hospital for her own baby, a girl. The Sosas have filed a claim for $200,000 damages. Hospital admits a clerical error.

BOY-SIZED FISH . . . Of just about equal size are Johnnie Smith and this whopper of a cod-fish he caught, with a little help from his dad, off Bayonne, N. J., his home. The fish weighed almost 50 pounds.

Obliging Fellow

The welfare committee of the town decided to form a band, and those wishing to join were instructed to fill out a form. Among those who did was the blacksmith, and he was now being interviewed.

"I see you would like to join the band, and that you would prefer a cornet," said the welfare official. "Have you any particular qualifications?"

"No," said the blacksmith, "but I'd like to learn, and I could put in a good bit of practice."

"The funny thing is," said the official, "that I have forty names here, and you are the only one who wants to play the cornet. All the others have asked for the big drum."

"Well, don't spoil your band for me," said the blacksmith. "Give me a drum as well!"

SITTING AT THE WINDOW

By RUBE GOLDBERG

ACE HAWKINS and Sam McQuade were discussing Grace Leland. Ace and Sam were the two roving philosophers of Milldale. The beautiful Autumn sunsets and the changing colors of the poplars entirely escaped their unimaginative attention. They asked nothing more of life than the privilege of peering lazily through doors and windows and making casual deductions about what was going on inside. That's how they happened to see Grace Leland.

"Gosh, that's Grace, all right! She looks faded," observed Ace. "What's she doin' back here, anyway?" asked Sam. "That's what I'd like to know. She don't see nobody but the butcher boy and Chic Myers, the postman."

"The way she used to traipse around I thought she'd grab herself a millionaire or something."

"I calc'late she wasn't the sort to settle down. Fact is, I heard somewhere she's been leadin' a pretty fast life these last fifteen or twenty years."

This Week's Best Fiction

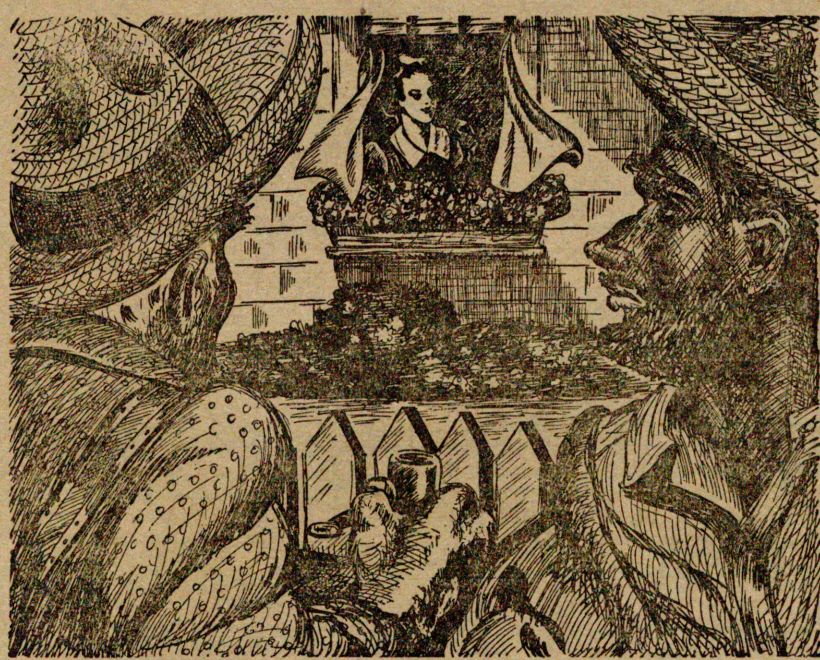

"Then what's she doin' back here?" "That's what I'd like to know."

"Let's mosey over to Chet's and get a cup of hot soup. Get's kinda cold waitin' around for somethin' to happen."

Grace had come back to Milldale after an absence of eighteen years and had rented a room in a small white house next to the drug store. Her friend, Thomas Slater, would soon return from Europe and then she would not have to hide any more. Meanwhile, it was very quiet in Milldale.

As she sat at the window she thought of her son's brown wavy hair, the slight tilt of his nose and his six feet of muscle and sinew. She was desperately anxious to make up for the fact that a headline-making divorce case had smashed the Leland home and left sensitive young David deeply hurt and fatherless. Her love for him was not a sufficient answer to the questions of his classmates who wanted to know about the big, black headlines and his folks. She must give him all the worldly things the other boys had—and more, too. Sweaters, pictures for his room, an electric phonograph and tails. She sent him an overstuffed chair. And cakes and a set of evening studs. It was all simple and exciting until David said he wanted a car.

DAVID must have a good car in which his friends could ride and sing and forget to ask questions. Once David had made the request she knew it must be granted. She must keep giving until she made up for the one thing that was lacking.

She found herself more and more noticing automobiles on the street. Some were well-proportioned. Some were clumsy. Some drivers steered easily and naturally. Others drove as though they were the lineal descendants of the fool Icarus who scorched the aborigines of Africa with his celestial juggernaut. David would drive gracefully David was David.

She looked in a large display window on Broadway and saw the car. A long, light-blue sedan with the smooth curving sides of a yacht and a tan collapsible top all fresh and youthful and clean like David. But the price was three thousand dollars!

There was only one person to whom Grace Leland could go for three thousand dollars. Thomas Slater had been her friend since the days when no massage was required to smooth out the puffy little bags under her eyes. She called up Thomas Slater's office and was told he had gone to Europe.

Grace looked at her thin wrist where once dangled a wide diamond bracelet. If only she had that bracelet now. She went around to the display window on Broadway and again looked at the long, sleek, light-blue sedan with the collapsible tan top. She saw David at the wheel. She saw him driving places where he could meet the fathers of his friends and feel the bracing contact of a masculine arm around his shoulder. Each time she went back to look at that car she was fearful it might have been bought by another mother for another David. A rash resolve was born of her desperation. She knew what she would do.

She studied the signatures on the many letters Thomas Slater had written her. Then she signed his name to a check for three thousand dollars.

It wasn't forgery because she felt she could explain everything to Slater when he returned from Europe. There couldn't be anything wrong about what she was doing.

When she received David's letter telling her she was the grandest mother in the world for buying him the most beautiful car in the world she choked up with emotion. She decided to go quietly to Milldale to await the return of Thomas Slater. He would understand.

Grace Leland was looking out of the window, absently musing over the boy and the car. Ace Hawkins and Sam McQuade stood on the sidewalk. A man walked up the front stoop of the little white house and tried the door. It was open and he walked in.

GRACE opened the inner door and saw the man in the hall. She thought it strange he did not remove his hat. "Are you Grace Leland?" he asked abruptly.

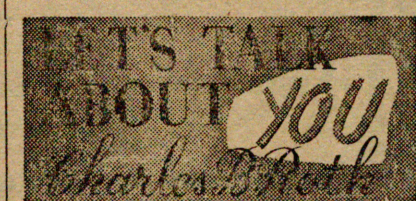

"Why, yes," she answered not quite prepared for the interrogation.

"Well, here's my badge," he said, pulling aside his outer coat. "I'm from headquarters. You forged the name of Thomas Slater to a check for three thousand dollars and cashed it at the Textile Bank and Trust Company. I'm afraid you'll have to come along with me."

Grace's face went white. It could not possibly be as serious as all that. The man just didn't know what he was talking about. "This is a terrible mistake," she almost screamed. "I had to sign Mister Slater's name to the check. There was nothing else to do. He will straighten it all out when he returns from Europe. He has often loaned me money. He's a fine, sweet gentleman. Why, why, Mister Slater and I used to be—"

"Madam, save your breath. Mister Slater died in London last week and the bank has taken charge of his affairs." The man put his hand in his coat pocket and Grace heard a metallic rattle.

"Look," said Ace Hawkins. "Here they come out together." "And holdin' hands, too," chuckled Sam McQuade. "Same old Grace."

Why Not Have More Things

Three persons called on me last week, all with the same problem. Two were women, the third a man. What all wanted to know is how they could get more out of life.

Neither of the women could play or sing. Neither could swim. The older woman couldn't dance. The man confessed he was a human "dud"—as he put it.

To each I told the same story—the story of Alexander Graham Bell, the man who developed the telephone. Mr. Bell called one day on his friend Joseph Henry, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. His purpose was to lament the fact that he was being held back in his work by a lack of knowledge of electricity.

With two words Mr. Henry disposed of that lament and put Alexander Graham Bell on the road to his great renown and riches, for he said, "Get it."

There's no such thing as an ideal personality or a successful person unless that personality or person is accomplished.

If you want to improve yourself you have to become more accomplished. Learn how to do everything; dance, swim, fish, ride, row, talk about stamps and flowers and books and music and art. Let no subject be entirely foreign to your life and knowledge.

You don't have to be a champion or an expert at any one thing. You don't want to be a champion. It's far better to be a third-rater in half a dozen fields than an expert in only one.

MAKING REFORMS SUCCEED

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 22:10, 11; 23:1-5, 21.
MEMORY SELECTION—Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law.—Psalm 119:34.

God can bring blessing out of the most unpromising of circumstances. Yes, and men can make chaos out of God's greatest gifts.

The good Josiah became king at eight years of age, and was surrounded by godly counselors who helped him become an outstanding ruler for God. When he was sixteen he had a real religious experience (II Chron. 34:3), and at twenty he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem of idols and wickedness.

I. A Book Found and Read (22:10, 11; 23:1, 2).

The Word of God had been neglected for about sixty years. How sad! Yes and how sad that in our homes the Bible is so often neglected—on a book shelf, or in a trunk, or gathering dust on a living room table. A lost Bible, and a people living in sin! How much we need to push aside the rubbish in our lives and bring out our "lost" Bibles.

Observe that they not only found the book, but they read it. That was true of the ones who found it as well as of those to whom they passed it on. What a good thought we have there: read the Bible, yes, but be sure to get someone else reading it too.

In Josiah's day it was thus first received.

1. By the King.

The ruler or rulers of the people need to return to God's Word in our day. It is all too often neglected in the council chambers of the nations.

Josiah was moved by what he read to real repentance. He realized that the judgment of God must come. Inquiry at Jerusalem brought word from Huldah the prophetess that it would come, but not in Josiah's day.

This king was not content to keep this word to himself, and insisted that it be read.

2. By the religious leaders.

The priests and the prophets who were doubly guilty in neglecting it were now brought face to face with God's revelation.

Who will say that the great need in America is not just this, that its preachers and denominational leaders get back to the reading and teaching of God's Word. Book reviews, lectures in economics and politics, discussions of one world—almost anything but the Bible. Such is the fare of many of our preachers. No wonder that they and their people are spiritually starved.

Josiah knew what was needed and the Word was now read.

3. By the people.

Applying that to our day, it is true that the Bible is our best seller, that it is available to every home, and that most decent households have not one but many Bibles. But are they being read? The answer is obviously no. Let's correct that dreadful situation. Read your Bible!

II. A Book Believed and Practiced (23:3-5, 21).

Josiah saw that it was not enough to read and rejoice over the Word of God. Something must be done about it, and he did it.

1. The king made a covenant with God.

Standing in a prominent place before his people, he humbly and solemnly renewed his consecration to the Lord, and promised to abide by his Word with all his heart and soul (v. 3). Such a leader could not but inspire his people to do the same.

What a blessing it is to us when we hear of some man prominent in the affairs of the nation or state who loves the Lord, and keeps his commandments. He is not only an inspiring example, but a real witness for God.

2. The priests cast out the idols (vv. 4, 5).

The king required this of them, and they proceeded thus to cleanse the places of worship and prepare the way for a true devotion to God.

Here again we say that when religious leaders get back to their first devotion to God and put away the empty philosophies of this world, we shall see a revival.

What did the people do? Josiah saw that they needed some positive expression of their faith. It was not enough to tear down the idols; they must re-establish the true worship of God. So we find that

3. The people kept the Passover. This was the great feast of the Jews which spoke of redemption from bondage. It pointed forward to Christ the Redeemer from sin. He is our Passover (I Cor. 5:7).

In these dark and bewildering days people are looking to Christian leaders to prepare a feast of remembrance of the death of Christ and of his glorious redemption. Let the people gather round him and, cleansed by his precious blood, keep the feast with joy and purity of heart (I Cor. 5:8).

Hefty Hippo

The hippopotamus, four tons and over, is second only to the elephant in size. It has a hide almost two inches thick, which alone may weigh more than a quarter of a ton. It can walk for miles on the bottom of a stream, closing ears and nostrils, coming up for air every six or seven minutes. By feeding on plants growing in river beds, it keeps the channels clear.

Fix Old Furniture

Many pieces of old furniture may be refinished for use in bedrooms and other parts of the house, but only pieces that have good lines and good construction are worth the expenditure of time, money and effort. Pieces made of cheaper woods may be painted, while finer woods take any one of a number of finishes.

Fish Food

As to food value, for practical purposes it is common to group fish with meat, poultry and eggs. These foods are all outstanding as a source of protein, and supply iron and some B vitamins as well. Fish high in fat also contain significant amounts of vitamins A and D.

Marine Standard

Maj. Samuel Nicholas, first continental marine officer, in 1775 instructed recruiting officers to accept no candidates for the marine corps except those "of dependable and religious nature combined with proper robustness of body."

Feather Fiber

Wigs that look and feel like human hair are manufactured from hen feathers. The process for making fiber from feathers was developed in hopes of finding new uses for the millions of pounds of feathers that are wasted annually.

Nearsighted Kiddies

Improper habits of reading are believed to be a contributing factor in nearsightedness among children. Young eyes are strained by poor lighting, small print and bad posture.

Furniture Dents

Furniture dents may be removed by putting moist blotting paper over the dent and applying heat from an iron over the blotter. The heat and moisture tend to cause the wood to swell and fill the dent.

Supplies Vitamin C

As an inexpensive source of vitamin C in family meals,

Damping-Off

Drenching the soil with a solution of 1½ gallons of water and 1 ounce of Spergon (or in proportion, according to needs) to a depth of about half an inch is an effective control for damping-off in plant beds. The material will not cure affected plants, but will protect healthy plants from the disease. In large beds, drenching only affected areas has proved effective. A sprayer or water can with a fine nozzle is good for applying the solution.

Midlands Capital

Birmingham, deep in the Midlands, follows London as England's second-largest city. Known as the economic and social capital of the region, it has a population of more than a million, and a long list of manufactured articles ranging from pins and needles to railway steel, from guns and machinery to buttons, saucepans and telescopes.

Cheese Nutritious

A good source of protein, cheese also is a source of fat, calcium, phosphorus and riboflavin. It is a food in group four of the basic seven along with milk and ice cream. One ounce of cheddar type cheese in the diet can be used as an alternate for one cup of milk as a source of calcium.

Elephant a Trail Blazer

The elephant is Africa's highway engineer, with a knack for avoiding severe gradients. Many African roads, and even some railways, follow its age-old tracks for distances. It provided native tribesmen many passes through the jungle.

Cleaning Surfaces

ENAMELED table tops, stoves, washing machines may be cleaned either by sprinkling soda on the dampened surface or by washing with a soda solution. This removes the oil or grease which holds the dirt, and leaves the surface clean and odorless.

Ancients Vain

Archaeologists digging among buried cities discovered that Sumerian women of thousands of years ago used "vanity cases" of gold, complete with tweezers, earpicks and head-scratchers.

Bends Light

Because the earth's atmosphere bends, or refracts light, our eyes see around the earth's curvature the sun for an instant after it has set, according to the Better Vision

Drainage Complaints Follow Heavy Rains

Recent heavy rains brought out a large number of citizens to tell of their troubles when the Frankfort village board met Monday night.

The Oregon street culvert was under discussion, as was the cleaning of the ditch. Two bids were presented covering work associated with the ditch and drainage, but these were rejected, the board desiring to have engineers of its own choosing make an investigation to determine what can be done and the most effective procedure.

Private citizens were reported as planning to employ help to clear the ditch on private property, and it was stated that the village authorities had no objection to such procedure.

Because of the prolonged discussion during the evening the board was unable to complete its program, and the board set last (Thursday) night for completing the unfinished business. It was thought that the report on the drainage program might be ready to present to the board at the special meeting.
